Musunkwa School Library in Good Condition

The Musunkwa library which was constructed in 2012 by CRAN for the Musunkwa school and surrounding communities is still in a very good condition, and the children are using the facility. There are however very few books for the children to use and the Head teacher says that most the books are at a higher level than the level of the children. They will therefore need more books which are at the level of primary and JHS students. They are therefore appealing to the general public that whatever amount of money that can be donated to them to buy the books will be much appreciated. With the computers in the school, ten are working. They said they will be glad to have donation of additional computers up to about ten or even more because the children are many. There are other things they need such as classroom block for their JHS students, teachers' bungalows and jerseys for their sports kids as well as footballs and other sport kits.

The beautiful library which was constructed in 2012 is still in good condition and benefiting the school children. We thank our sponsors, The Trinity United Church of Wimbledon, UK for that wonderful support.

CESS Children Receive Materials and Lunch Subsidy Support

It is the beginning of yet another academic year and CRAN has gone to the aid of the needy but brilliant children on its support list. CRAN has provided school materials such as note books, exercise books, mathematical sets, pens, pencils, etc, to the children to enable them go through their academic year successfully.

Gari and Corn Mill Project Near Completion

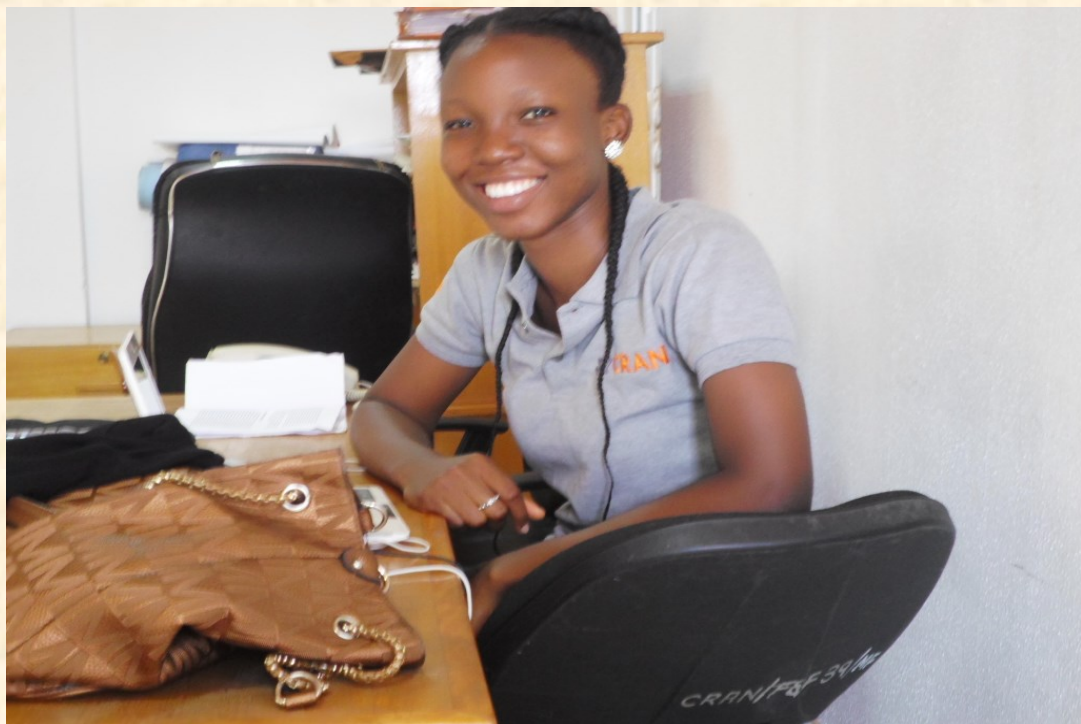

The Gari and Corn mill project which is being sponsored by the German Embassy in Ghana is about 95% completed. The project which began in April 2016 will be completed by the end of November 2016. The project which was scheduled to be completed in four months is behind schedule. This is because, the project is a collaboration with the community which is providing the labour. They have to combine the work on the project with their farming activities. As a result they are not able to devote a lot of time for the project. The community members are also engaged in several other projects in the community and so have a divided attention. They have however assured me that they will complete the project by the end of the month of November.

The pictures show the main building to house the machines, the shed for the frying of the gari and the milling machine being installed in the main building. The project is about 95% complete.

Benedicta Afram has Moved On

She has been with the organization for a little over three years and has been very instrumental in the rejuvenation of the CRAN newsletter. She has also helped with the reviving of the CRAN website. She has been very supportive with all the activities in the organization especially, field work. She has always been a very serious worker who worked hard to ensure that the objectives of the organization were achieved. We wish her the best in all her en-
